Will supports clients in environmental and infrastructure litigation and project development in Alaska.

Will serves clients in complex commercial disputes in the mining, oil and gas, and environmental remediation space. This work has included defending environmental response and cleanup actions, complex mining disputes, and oil and gas lease litigations.

Will's oil and gas work, grounded in his background in geology, extends across Alaska's North Slope and Cook Inlet, and involves both regulatory work and commercial litigation.

EXPERIENCE

Will provides effective representation to clients in energy and natural resources industries, including:

- Oil and gas lease termination disputes
- Defense of energy and natural resource development permits
- Environmental remediation
- Permitting and regulatory compliance
