Ms. Biggs has practiced management-side employment law since 1988. She chaired Holland & Hart's employment practice group for 5 years, from 1998 through 2003. She defends employers in employment related litigation and advises employers on a variety of employment law topics, such as complying with the Americans with Disabilities Act and Family and Medical Leave Act, compliance with wage and hour laws, drafting and enforcing covenants not to compete and confidentiality agreements, drafting employee handbooks and policies, conducting internal investigations, implementing drug testing programs, developing internal dispute resolution systems, and reducing the risks of litigation. She has represented a wide variety of employers in the litigation and mediation of wage and hour disputes, including collective (class) actions under the Fair Labor Standards Act. She also has extensive experience on how to comply with employment laws that differ from one jurisdiction to another both in the U.S. and outside the U.S.

Christina Gomez is an associate at Holland & Hart, where she represents and advises employers concerning a variety of employee-related issues, including application of federal and state anti-discrimination laws, compliance with medical leave and disability laws, compliance with federal and state wage and hour laws, drafting and enforcement of employment agreements and covenants not to compete, maintenance of employee privacy rights, drafting employee handbooks and policies, and other similar issues. She also handles appellate litigation in the federal and state courts. Ms. Gomez graduated summa cum laude from Millsaps College and cum laude from Harvard Law School, after which she clerked for two years with the Honorable Charles A. Pannell, Jr. in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia.
