Burke combines his extensive legal knowledge with more than a decade of in-house, real-world experience to provide practical advice and counseling to his clients.

As General Counsel and Chief Legal Officer for Summit Financial Resources, Burke gained extensive experience in advising clients on a broad spectrum of legal issues, including corporate transactions and governance, business formation and structuring, contract drafting and negotiation, mergers and acquisitions, litigation, and employment matters. Burke draws on this experience to provide a full spectrum of legal services to businesses across a wide range of industries.

As General Counsel at Summit, Burke also developed expertise in factoring and loans secured by accounts receivable, inventory, equipment, and other assets. He negotiated, documented, and assisted in the ongoing management of an extensive portfolio of financing transactions. With both transaction and litigation experience in recovery, workouts and insolvency of distressed loans, Burke has comprehensive experience with every facet of the loan lifecycle. Both lenders and borrowers benefit from his ability to proactively assess business and transactional issues and recommend terms and strategies that protect value and mitigate risk.
