Judd West defends the interests of energy and resource industry clients in complex commercial, personal injury, and construction disputes in New Mexico.

Judd represents energy and natural resources clients before state and federal courts and has experience defending owners, operators, and service vendors in toxic tort, wrongful death, catastrophic injury, and insurance issues ranging from coverage to contractual indemnity.

Judd brings extensive experience defending contractors and subcontractors in the construction industry on construction defect, accident, and insurance disputes. He also advises contractors on construction law and provides drafting services on construction contracts.

As an experienced litigator, Judd has successfully defended clients in numerous jury trials, bench trials, administrative hearings and arbitrations.
