Stu's practice encompasses a broad range of corporate matters, including mergers and acquisitions, equity and debt financings, corporate governance, complex financial transactions, and regulatory compliance. He focuses on highly-regulated industries including aggregates and building materials, manufacturing, cannabis, and mining, to create tailored, pragmatic solutions that help advance his clients' business objectives.

Stu leverages his strong working relationships with industry and regulatory stakeholders to help clients resolve disputes, capitalize on strategic business opportunities, and navigate ever-changing regulatory requirements. He also defends cannabis clients in both regulatory enforcement matters and investigations.

Before joining Holland & Hart, Stu practiced at Greenspoon Marder and worked as an Assistant City Attorney for the Denver City Attorney's Office.
