Cameron supports clients through complex business litigation and compliance work with a primary focus on the healthcare industry.

His experience includes all phases of litigation—ranging from administrative appeals and discovery to pre-trial motions and trial preparation. Cameron draws on significant inside exposure to litigation strategy through his past experience in federal court and ongoing client work, giving him a strong foundation for managing complex disputes and preparing cases for successful resolution.

In addition to litigation, Cameron routinely counsels hospitals, health systems, provider groups, solo practitioners, and insurers on a wide range of regulatory, compliance, and operational issues. His healthcare practice frequently includes matters involving Stark and Anti-Kickback compliance, physician and vendor contracting, medical staff governance, licensing investigations, peer review protections, EMTALA obligations, and payer-provider disputes. Cameron offers practical insight into the legal and operational challenges that providers of all sizes face—from managing enterprise risk and regulatory enforcement exposure to structuring compliant growth and alignment strategies.

Drawing on a background in public policy and direct experience working alongside leadership at some of Idaho's largest healthcare companies, Cameron delivers legal advice grounded in both regulatory depth and real-world operational insight. He also has substantial experience with state procurement law, including major public contracting and administrative appeals.

Cameron's clients include hospitals, provider groups, payers, public institutions, and corporations of all sizes across a wide range of industries. He closely monitors emerging developments in case law, legislation, and administrative rulemaking, providing forward-looking legal risk assessments that help clients make confident, informed decisions.

EXPERIENCE

Commercial Litigation

- Represents clients in complex commercial disputes involving business torts, breach of contract, tortious interference, and civil fraud

- Brings substantial federal court experience to bear in crafting litigation strategy, preparing dispositive motions, and advising on procedural positioning
- Advises on corporate governance disputes, fiduciary responsibilities, and internal business conflicts, including shareholder and partnership breakups
- Defends companies in Title III ADA public accommodation matters and develops compliance frameworks to mitigate future risk
- Known for exceptional legal research and written advocacy, with a strong track record of persuasive brief writing and strategic legal reasoning in high-stakes matters

Healthcare Law: Compliance and Regulations

- Counsels hospitals, health systems, and provider groups on Stark, Anti-Kickback, and broader fraud and abuse compliance
- Provides regulatory guidance on Medicare/Medicaid billing, reimbursement, and evolving federal and state oversight trends
- Advises on HIPAA compliance and privacy practices, particularly as they intersect with operational decisions and health IT systems
- Supports clients in peer review, credentialing, and medical staff governance processes, including complex disciplinary issues
- Helps healthcare leaders assess legal risk tied to alignment strategies, policy shifts, and enterprise-level operations

Administrative and Judicial Proceedings

- Represents healthcare clients and other regulated entities in disputes with state and federal agencies, including licensure actions and Medicaid enforcement
- Navigates administrative appeals, contested case proceedings, and emergency facility matters requiring fast legal intervention
- Combines litigation skills with deep regulatory knowledge to help clients mitigate exposure and position themselves favorably in enforcement or review processes
- Leverages experience in the federal judiciary to craft tailored litigation strategies that reflect both substantive law and procedural advantage

CLIENT RESULTS
