Alex supports clients in the energy and natural resources industries with complex legal challenges and disputes.

Alex brings in-depth understanding of trial and appellate court systems and processes from three judicial clerkships. Through these experiences, he observed firsthand how judges approach and analyze legal issues in reaching a disposition. He leverages this knowledge to advise clients on litigation strategy and in developing persuasive written arguments, particularly on cases involving regulatory and administrative issues.

His experience drafting pipeline and natural gas lease agreements and conducting due diligence for energy sector mergers and acquisitions also informs his work in complex commercial litigation.

Before joining Holland & Hart, Alex served as a law clerk for Justice Carlos A. Samour Jr. of the Supreme Court of Colorado, Judge Craig R. Welling of the Colorado Court of Appeals, and Judge David H. Goldberg of Denver District Court.
