Jackson Wong is a versatile litigator who brings significant litigation experience across a wide range of complex business litigation matters, including antitrust, business disputes, class actions, and construction defects. Drawing on his experience in Nevada's state and federal courts, Jackson focuses on resolving disputes efficiently through strategic settlement negotiations, alternative dispute resolution, and, when necessary, trial advocacy.

Clients turn to Jackson's proactive, solutions-oriented counsel that blends legal insight with a deep understanding of each client's unique goals and risk profile. His litigation experience includes drafting pleadings and legal briefs on high-stakes issues, conducting legal research on complex issues, performing large-scale document reviews, and presenting oral arguments before both district and appellate courts.

Prior to joining Holland & Hart, Jackson worked for a renowned boutique litigation firm based in Nevada. Jackson also honed his skills working as a judicial intern to Judge Kathleen E. Delaney and as a judicial law clerk to Judge Susan H. Johnson of the Eighth Judicial District Court.

He is proficient in Chinese and Cantonese dialect.
