Leveraging his background in high-stakes litigation, Zach helps clients navigate complex disputes with strategic counsel tailored to their business needs and risk tolerance. His experience includes representing clients across diverse industries, including oil and gas, energy, chemical manufacturing, and private equity.

Clients value Zach's ability to rapidly grasp the unique challenges and regulatory landscapes of different business sectors, enabling him to craft legal strategies that align with clients' operational realities and long-term business objectives.

Zach approaches employment matters by providing guidance to help businesses effectively mitigate risk. When disputes arise, he has experience managing cases through all stages of litigation in state and federal courts.

Before joining Holland & Hart, Zach was an associate at the trial boutique Reynolds Frizzell LLP in Houston, TX. Additionally, Zach served as a law clerk for Judge Jane J. Boyle of the US District Court for the Northern District of Texas.
