Dan's broad-based practice allows him to serve as a single point of contact for clients facing diverse legal challenges across multiple industries, from food and beverage to technology, from agriculture to construction. He provides comprehensive litigation services to clients facing a variety of claims including contract disputes, business torts, real estate disputes, and enforcement of intellectual property rights.

Dan also counsels high net worth individuals and family offices on a wide range of issues affecting both their business ventures and personal interests, from commercial disputes and real estate matters to reputation management and liability concerns.

Clients value Dan's commitment to building deep relationships to understand their broader business objectives and long-term needs. With this big-picture perspective, he can see beyond individual disputes and craft strategies that resolve immediate issues and support clients' operational goals.

Dan emphasizes proactive counsel and early intervention, guiding clients on contract structures, business relationships, and potential liability exposures before disputes arise. When conflicts do emerge, he focuses on efficient resolution through negotiation, mediation, or formal litigation.

Before joining Holland & Hart, Dan was a partner and litigation lead for the Denver and Boise offices of Perkins Coie.
