Lucy helps clients navigate environmental, land use, and regulatory matters, drawing on experience across the public and private sectors.

Lucy's practice focuses on environmental, energy, and natural resources matters. She supports clients facing complex regulatory, permitting, land use, and litigation issues, bringing experience from local government, state government, and nonprofit environmental organizations.

Before joining Holland & Hart as an associate, Lucy served as a legal extern with the City Attorney's Office for the City of South Lake Tahoe, where she advised city staff on matters involving municipal governance and constitutional law. She also assisted with litigation matters, drafting motions and other legal filings.

Lucy previously worked with the California Attorney General's Office in the Land Use and Conservation Section, where she supported environmental litigation through legal research and analysis. She also served as a legal intern with the Sierra Club's Environmental Law Program, researching and analyzing issues involving environmental regulation, land use, conservation, and natural resources law.

Earlier in her legal career, Lucy interned with the Town Attorney's Office for the Town of Truckee. In that role, she drafted municipal ordinances, legislative position letters, intergovernmental agreements, and other local government documents.

Prior to law school, Lucy worked as a ski patroller at Northstar California, gaining firsthand experience in the mountain communities and outdoor environments that shape many natural resources and land use issues throughout the West.
